CSUE 4-H LIVESTOCK POLICIES & RULES

Colorado State University Extension and San Miguel/West Montrose Counties State and County Requirements for Livestock Participants (Contact the Extension Office for complete list of livestock projects)

1. Compliance with all Colorado laws prohibiting tampering with or drugging of livestock and/or sale of adulterated meat is mandatory for any 4-H member enrolled in a market animal project. If legal or substantiated charges are brought against any 4-H member/family, the member/ family will be suspended from participation in all 4-H market livestock activities pending resolution of those charges. If found guilty, or the 4-H member/family voluntarily agrees to sanctions imposed by another livestock governing group, the 4-H member/family will be banned from all market animal projects by Colorado State University Extension 4-H Youth Development for a minimum of one year. The imposed ban may be longer depending on the severity of the illegal action.
2. 4-H members enrolled in market and/or breeding livestock project must be current on their county requirements for the Youth Meat Quality Assurance Program (MQA). A Meat Quality Assurance Program is required for all 4-H members enrolled in a market and/or breeding livestock project: Once, as a first-year member who is a Junior or Intermediate member (between the ages of 8 and 13) and again when a member becomes a Senior (14 years old). The only exception to being required to take it twice would be for a first-time member who is 14 or older. In that case it would only be required once. Those members not required to attend a MQA Program are encouraged to complete a Quality Assurance Checklist yearly.
3. 4-H members enrolled in market and/or breeding livestock projects will sign a statement (in the Record Book) indicating their understanding and compliance with the Wholesome Meat Act <http://www.fda.gov/opacom/laws/meat.htm> and that they have complied with the Ten Good Production Practices taught in MQA. Additionally, consequences for failing to comply with the Wholesome Meat Act/Rules of Competition/4-H Code of Conduct may result in removal from all 4-H livestock projects for the member/ family. The statement must be signed every time the member signs up for a market livestock project. The MQA program suggests that these records be kept on file for twelve months following the sale of the livestock.
4. 4-H Humane Animal Care Guidelines will be signed, placed on file, reviewed and practiced by every person enrolled in or participating in 4-H livestock projects. Checks or home visits will be performed randomly by members of CSU Extension, the presiding 4-H Agent, and 4-H club leader throughout the active and current San Miguel Basin Fair year. The 4-H Humane Animal Care Guidelines publication is available from the CSU Extension Resource Center or from local Extension Agents.
5. All market animals that are 4-H projects must be individually identified i.e. ear tags, leg band, permanent ear tattoos or other identification as required for each species.
6. If an exhibitor is going to State Fair, a premises Identification number will be required for all 4-H Livestock / Small Animals Exhibitors (Rabbits are exempt), this number must appear on the original Colorado State Fair Entry Form.
7. All 4-H members who participate in a livestock project, either for meat or show, or horse or dog showmanship, must complete or turn in a record book(s), including all species, to the Extension Office by the second Friday in August. Record books turned in after this date will not be eligible for Achievement Awards, such as Top Record Book and will lose points for Outstanding Livestock Exhibitor, etc. Record books will be reviewed using CSU guidelines. Members must score a 70% or better on their record books. If a member receives a score of less than 70%, that member will not be allowed to re-enroll in that specific project for one 4-H project year. An exception will be made if any member scoring less than 70% on their record book comes into the Extension Office for individual help from CSU Extension staff within three weeks after receiving their graded record book back. They will then be given a single opportunity to make changes to their record book and raise their score to above a 70%.
8. Proven violation of any of these requirements listed above shall result in disqualification of all livestock projects for that year. A written documentation of the violation of any of these requirements must be submitted within 24 hours to the Extension Office and any other appropriate persons, including, but not limited to the Fair Superintendent and Fair Board members.
